It's been four months since National Cheese Lover's Day and America can't wait a full year. That's right, there are only a handful of foods so beloved, they get two obscure holidays a year. And who are we to question it? We've gathered the ultimate cheese destinations across the country, from famous shops with hundreds of options to restaurants aging in epic cheese caves, rolling decadent cheese carts and serving the perfect cheese boards, for National

Cheese Day on June 4. These are the places to pick out a specialty hunk of cheese or sample a few gooey, soft, crumbly or hard varieties whether you're into fine French, all-American Wisconsin or chef's growing cultures right in the kitchen. Peruse cheese lover's paradises in the gallery above and indulge away — it's your second day.
