■ “Finally, a good bargain from Eli Zabar” exult surveyors who can’t believe the shockingly “competitive” prices at his “small” street-level wine shop adjacent to Eli’s Manhattan, which looks like a European wine cave and is overseen by manager Jonathan Laufer “who knows his stuff” and is “very helpful” in advising customers on the “well-edited” 300-label boutique selection; P.S. “amnesiacs should know that they keep a database of all your purchases.”
